

Return to Practice Programme

RTPP

Ready to return following a break from nutritional therapy practice? Our RTPP maps to BANT requirements for graduates of NTEC accredited courses.

Why Choose This Programme?

- Experienced course tutors and clinic supervisors: to assist Return to Practice (RTP) students to regain the confidence to return to practice in a supportive environment.
- Flexible start dates: within a few working days of accepting a course offer the RTP can be started.
- Clinical Tools: use up-to-date clinical tools to support your clinical experience and potential use in your own practice.
- BANT approved RTP.

CNELM offers a comprehensive package for nutritional therapy practitioners of NTEC accredited courses to return to practice. The package will vary depending on the length of time since the practitioner last practised and is in alignment with the requirements of BANT.

Entry Requirements

You are eligible to apply to us if you fit into one of the following:

1. Completed a nutritional therapy training course accredited by the Nutritional Therapy Education Commission (NTEC).
2. Completion of BANT RTP Learning Modules prior to starting supervised RTP with CNELM. RTP students can commence a review of CNELM RTP resources alongside BANT Learning Modules.

Study and Time Commitments

Different levels of Return to Practice Requirements will depend on whether you have been out of practice between 2-7 years or more than 7 years.

BANT Learning Modules include with estimated learning hours:

- Practice Governance (10 hours)
- Functional Medicine Approach in Nutrition and Lifestyle Medicine Clinical Practice (10 hours)
- Functional Testing (35 hours)

The minimum CNELM provides is:
